

NJIT's university library, the Robert W. Van Houten Library, is located in the Central Avenue Building (CAB), a facility for studying, researching, and browsing our online and print resources. In 1997, the Van Houten Library opened the Information Commons, a computer lab with access to the internet and a wide range of electronic sources. Today, there are over 100 computer workstations and wireless access throughout the building.

Robert W. Van Houten Library
182 Central Ave.
Newark, NJ 07102-1982
973-596-3206 | library.njit.edu

The Barbara & Leonard Littman Architecture and Design Library, a branch of the university's library is located in Weston Hall. The Littman Library maintains a core collection (books, journals, slides and digital images) of architecture, art and design information materials. Maps, architectural drawings, models and a variety of material samples are also available and accessible in the Littman Library.

Barbara & Leonard Littman Architecture and Design Library
Weston Hall, 4th Floor
Newark, NJ 07102-1982
973-596-3083 | archlib.njit.edu

OVERVIEW OF THE NJIT LIBRARY

COLLECTION

The library collection comprises over 439,000 volumes of books, journals, conference proceedings, reports, dissertations, and theses. The libraries spend over 94% of its materials budget to acquire electronic resources and full-text content that are accessible anytime and anywhere. Electronic resources include ACM Digital Library, Academic Search Premier, Artstor, Avery Index, Business Source Premier, IEEE Xplore, New York Times Online, ProQuest Ebooks, Science Direct, Scopus, SciFinder Scholar, SPIE Digital Library, SpringerLink, SpringerNature, Wiley Online Library and many more.

GETTING STARTED

Access to electronic and print resources starts at the library home page, library.njit.edu. Subject access to the journal literature in engineering, science, computer science, management, architecture, and other subject areas is provided by a variety of electronic databases.

RESEARCH AND INSTRUCTION

Professional librarians provide instruction and research consultation in all subject areas to enhance the students, faculty, and staff ability to connect efficiently with needed information. Help is available in person, by phone or via email, and through live chat during selected hours. See researchguides.njit.edu/start-research/researchhelp.

RESOURCES BEYOND NJIT

Students, faculty, and staff may supplement NJIT library resources by borrowing material from the Rutgers University, Dana Library, the Newark Public Library, the George F. Smith Library of the Health Sciences, and the other state colleges and university of New Jersey. Interlibrary Loan and Document Delivery Services can also bring needed materials to our researchers from anywhere in the world.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS AND ARCHIVES

Included among NJIT's information resources are the university's historical archive for items developed and manufactured by Edward Weston--scientist, a prolific inventor, and a founding member of the board of trustees of the university. The Van Houten Library maintains a collection of Dr. Weston's books, drawings and papers in the Rare Book Room that is available to scholars and others interested in the history of science and technology by appointment.

CONTACT US

Connect virtually at library.njit.edu or by calling (973)596-3210 for more information about the Van Houten Library. Connect virtually at archlib.njit.edu or by calling (973)596-3083 for more information about the Littman Library.

VISIT THE VIRTUAL LIBRARY AT

LIBRARY.NJIT.EDU OR ARCHLIB.NJIT.EDU